MATCH PREVIEWS by Brendan Bradford

NORTHERN SUBURBS V SOUTHERN DISTRICTS

The ABC cameras will be at iconic North Sydney Oval this Saturday as eighth placed Northern Suburbs host tenth placed Southern Districts. Not many people predicted both these sides would be winless after two rounds and with just one point between them, they're each desperate to kick-start their seasons with a win this Saturday.

For Norths coach Scott Fava, who names the same starting side for the third game in a row, it's about developin combinations and searching for a consistent 80-minute performance after his team led at halftime in each of its opening two games but failed to finish the job.

"We're a young team and for us it's just about learning how to win," the former Wallaby back-rower said. "We had a good opportunity to do that on the weekend. We played well for 60 minutes, but let ourselves go at the end there, which was the same against Eastwood in Round one. We just need to find out what happened at that 60 minute mark and start putting those performances to bed. "We're doing the right things, but just not putting the foot on the throat and taking it to the next level."

First year Southern Districts head coach Matt Barr has made a few changes after his side's 36-18 loss to Warringah last weekend and admits some players need to start performing. The shake-up comes in the back-row where the Rebels will face a stern in test in Norths' loose-forwards Ben Matwijow, Will Miller and Michael Wells.

"We need to make a few adjustments, so Sam Latunipulu comes in at blindside and Kieren Black, who's new to our club, starts at openside," said Barr. "Some blokes just need the opportunity after performing in second grade, but at the same time, others that aren't performing need to know it's not good enough and they won't get to keep their spot in first grade."

Still early days in the season, Barr hasn't hit the panic button yet and says there are plenty of positives to work on. "We spoke a lot about attitude and everyone was still upbeat at training on Tuesday because we're still doing some quality things. Looking at the stats - while the score-line might not indicate it - we're not missing many tackles, but when we are, our structures are letting us down and teams are capitalising."

The same could be said of the Shoremen who have been one of the better defensive sides over the last couple of seasons and can still point to a tackle success rate of 92% so far. "We're doing some good things and scoring points and we're young side with players still adjusting to first grade," said Fava. "It's still early in the season, so I'm confident it will happen."

While Fava names an unchanged side, Souths winger Ben Connolly picked up a groin injury last weekend, giving Sasa Talifou an opportunity in first grade. Talifou joined the club this season and is still eligible for Colts but showed enough early season promise to warrant selection in the number 11 jersey. Ben Arnold starts at fullback in place of Ben Volavola who has been called into the Waratahs squad in Perth.
